The information used to provide the Appointment Booking and certificate ordering is also reliant upon the accuracy of the data provided by the Customer.

1.1.6 Once the Customer has completed the Appointment Booking information and successfully booked an online consultation with DocHQ or one of its partners, the booking details will be emailed to the customer.

1.1.7 A trained Healthcare Professional will be available online at the agreed time. As part of the online guidance for sampling, your identity will be checked against a valid identification document. DocHQ aims to produce valid and correct results through controlled processes under medical control and in accordance with medical standards. A test certificate can only be issued if the sampling is carried out under the supervision of the healthcare professionals during the online consultation and the specified processes are followed. DocHQ's representatives are instructed not to accept the sample if there is doubt about the identity of the person to be tested, if the instructions for taking the sample are not followed or if there are other doubts about the correctness of the sample. In such a case, any reimbursement of costs and liability on the part of DocHQ or one of its partners for any damage incurred is excluded.

1.1.8 A certificate will be issued following the test result. Only valid, not detected test results will allow you to travel. We will do our best to issue your certificate as quickly as possible.

1.1.9 The test certificate contains information about yourself, including your surname, first name, date of birth, gender, ID (passport, card or driver's licence number), details of the test procedure, test date and time, sensitivity and specificity for antigen tests, responsible test manufacturer and responsible doctor. The certificate is issued in English. This meets the criteria for most occasions where a negative COVID-19 test is required for travelling, but DocHQ and its partners cannot guarantee that this certificate will be recognised for the desired purpose.

1.1.10 Certificates will be issued for Positive, Negative or Invalid results:

Please follow government rules and guidelines DocHQ will inform the relevant authority of the positive result.

Invalid – If no control line is visible the result should be considered invalid. You will need to take another test

Certificates will not be issued if:

- You fail to join the appointment at the arranged time
- Your kit is opened before the online consultation commences
- You do not give permission for the healthcare professional to share their medical information

- The test is not taken as per the healthcare professional's instruction
- Abusive or inappropriate behaviour/language is directed at the healthcare professional

1.2 Customer's Obligations and Understandings

1.2.1 If you are purchasing a test for the purposes of travelling, it is critical that you check both with the destination authority and your airline to ensure you give us the exact requirements applicable to your trip, and we will base our schedule on the requirements you provide us. Due to the daily variations and requirements, we are unable to verify this on your behalf. We will endeavour to share our best knowledge, which should not be construed as advice.

1.2.2 Order your kit in plenty of time. Allow yourself time to receive the kit, book and join your online consultation, take the swab sample and receive your certificate. Due to demand, it is advisable to test at the earliest opportunity within your allowable window.

1.2.3 If you are providing the Antigen test kit yourself, you are responsible for making sure that your Antigen test kit is listed on the DocHQ website as an approved test. If your kit is not listed, our healthcare professional will be unable to continue and unable to issue your certificate. The test will be rejected, and no refunds will be made.

1.2.4 To complete your Antigen swab and receive your certificate, you will need to book and join an online consultation with our Healthcare Professional. They will provide instruction and guidance for yourself swab.

1.2.5 Any information you provide in completing the Appointment Booking form are fully complete and accurate. You will assure that the sample/s originate exclusively from the named person/s and will be obtained in accordance with the written and verbal instructions provided during the online consultation.

1.2.6 By providing an e-mail address, the customer assures that the e-mail address belongs to the customer and that the customer wants the test results (which contain health data) to be sent to this e-mail address and that he or she agrees to the non-secure communication channel.

1.2.7 If you have placed an order for and are a legal guardian of a UK resident under the age of 18yrs who seeks a Covid Antigen Fit to Travel Certificate, you are required to be present during the online consultation, otherwise the Healthcare Professional cannot proceed and will reject the certificate.

1.2.8 You are aware that children under 18 years can only attend the online video appointment with an adult (18+) present from the same Appointment Booking.

1.2.9 You are responsible to ensure that you have a sufficient internet connection and sufficient equipment (laptop or phone) with high quality camera, to effectively attend the video consultation and process test results. We take no responsibility for failure to complete the video consultation due to above factors.

1.2.10 If done correctly the test sampling is harmless, however unpleasant body reactions can occur. These can vary depending upon the individual and the sampling method used. Possible reactions are gagging, coughing, sneezing, watery eyes, slight bleeding from the mucous membranes and dizziness. We recommend informing an adult who is nearby about the upcoming test, so that they can provide help if necessary. Your address will be requested for your online guidance, so that our team can organise help if necessary. If you feel any discomfort during the online consultation, please inform your healthcare professional immediately.

1.2.11 Do not drink, eat, use mouthwash, brush teeth, or chew gum 30 minutes prior to online consultation. The quality of the swab sample depends largely on correct sampling. It is therefore important that you follow instructions provided in writing and given during the online consultation.

1.2.12 Any opened test kits prior to the online consultation will be deemed as unusable, and the healthcare professional will be unable to proceed. Certificates will also be marked as rejected for reasons such as, if you fail to join the appointment at the arranged time, you do not give permission for the healthcare professional to share your medical information, the test kit is contaminated, the test is not taken as per the healthcare professional's instruction, or abusive or inappropriate behaviour/language is directed at the healthcare professional. On these occasions you would need to reorder and retake your test at your own expense.

1.2.13 In case of a positive test result (detected) you must consider yourself infectious and follow the current local government rules regarding self-isolation and diagnostic confirmation. We will inform you of the test result but will be unable to supply you with a Negative (not detected) Covid PCR Certificate.

1.2.14 False negative and false positive test results are possible. This means despite a negative test result, you can be infected with SARS-CoV-2, and conversely, a positive test result does not mean that you actually have an acute infection with SARS-CoV-2. A positive result in the rapid antigen test must be confirmed by a diagnostic PCR test. To do this, please contact your family doctor, a public health service test centre or another medical facility and get advice and testing. Until you receive the result of this confirmatory test, you must consider yourself infectious and follow the local regulations on self-isolation.

1.2.15 As with any other tests, a small percentage of samples can be inconclusive or invalid for reasons including insufficient DNA match, not following instructions strictly, contamination of the sample or insufficient material. In the unlikely event that this happens, you understand and agree that you will need to retake the test and the same charges will apply. We will inform you of the test result but will be unable to supply you with a negative (not detected) Covid Antigen Certificate.

1.2.16 The Healthcare Professional may deem the appointment as rejected, for reasons such as: you do not have sufficient ID, you do not follow instruction and guidance, you are unable to join the appointment link, you are aggressive or abusive, a child has joined the appointment without their adult in the appointment booking, On these such occasions you would need to reorder and retake your test at your own expense.

1.2.17 Be aware that this online guided Covid-19 self-test is a screening method, not a diagnostic service. It does not replace a consultation with a medical doctor.

1.2.18 By purchasing this certificate, you acknowledge and agree to the terms above and that DocHQ cannot be held liable for any damage to health, losses or delays due to the many factors involved which are outside our control. Your purchase constitutes formal consent for DocHQ to share your details with any relevant third-party suppliers and releases the involved doctors and medical staff from their confidentiality agreement. The necessary involved partners are Park and St Francis Surgery, Ciconia Recovery, UK Public Health England and any relevant regulatory authorities.

1.2.19 When purchasing Day 2 Testing - Please enter the Order ref number (5 digits, 7 numbers) into your Passenger Locator Form (PLF).

<https://www.gov.uk/provide-journey-contact-details-before-travel-uk>

Please book your Day 2 appointment on or before the second day of your arrival back into the UK.

1.2.20 The product is non-transferable.

2.1.3 Link to join the online consultation at the agreed time with a trained healthcare professional.

DocHQ aims to produce valid and correct results through controlled processes under medical control and in accordance with medical standards. A test certificate can only be issued if the sampling is carried out under the supervision of the healthcare professionals during the online consultation and the specified processes are followed. DocHQ's representatives are instructed not to accept the sample if there is doubt about the identity of the person to be tested, if the instructions for taking the sample are not followed or if there are other doubts about the correctness of the sample. In such a case, any reimbursement of costs and liability on the part of DocHQ or one of its partners for any damage incurred is excluded.

2.1.9 A certificate will be issued following the test result. The certificate has medical oversight from a GMC registered doctor. Only valid, not detected test results will allow you to travel on your journey. We will do our best to issue your certificate as quickly as possible. However, delays in the process are possible, therefore, the timely presentation of the test results (e.g., before departure of a flight) cannot be guaranteed. Incorrect packaging or labelling can mean that a sample cannot be assigned or used so it's essential that you follow the instructions provided. On rare occasions a sample may not be evaluated by the laboratory (so called inhibited sample, termination of the run, etc.) or the result takes longer without DocHQ or its partners being at fault. In these cases, we will offer you a repeat test at no additional cost. However, in such instances the test result will take additional time and we are not liable for any damage or travel disruption caused by such a delay.

2.1.10 The test certificate contains information about yourself, including your surname, first name, date of birth, gender, ID (passport, card or driver's licence number), details of the test procedure, test date and time, sensitivity and specificity for antigen tests, responsible medical service, responsible doctor, information about the laboratory in case of a PCR test. for travelling, but DocHQ and its partners cannot guarantee that this certificate will be recognised for the desired purpose.

2.1.11 Certificates will be issued for Positive, Negative or Invalid results:

Negative – SARS-CoV-2 is not detected. You can continue your journey with your certificate

Positive – SARS-CoV-2 is detected. Please follow government rules and guidelines DocHQ will inform the relevant authority of the positive result

Indeterminate – The lab will provide a reason for your indeterminate result. You will need to take another test

Certificates will not be issued if:

- You fail to join the appointment at the arranged time
- Your kit is opened before the online consultation commences
- You do not give permission for the healthcare professional to share their medical information
- The test is not taken as per the healthcare professional's instruction
- Abusive or inappropriate behaviour/language is directed at the healthcare professional

2.2 Customer's Obligations and Understandings

By confirming your order, you acknowledge that it is your responsibility to check travel requirements carefully, as under no circumstance will DocHQ be responsible for missed flights or any losses incurred in connection with testing, including in the event of a positive result.

2.2.5 Please be aware that due to Royal Mail UK services our product may not be suitable if you require a swab sample on a Saturday (expected delivery to lab on Monday) or Sunday (expected delivery to lab on Tuesday). Please check your time window. You are welcome to arrange a courier at your own expense, to deliver your swab to the lab to meet your time window requirements.

2.2.6 Any information you provide in completing the Order or Appointment Booking form are fully complete and accurate. You will assure that the sample/s originate exclusively from the named person/s and will be obtained in accordance with the written and verbal instructions provided during the online consultation.

2.2.7 By providing an e-mail address, the customer assures that the e-mail address belongs to the customer and that the customer wants the test results (which contain health data) to be sent to this e-mail address and that he or she agrees to the non-secure communication channel. You may want to consider multiple orders if you would like multiple test certificates sent to individual email addresses for confidentiality reasons. DocHQ cannot disclose the results of any customer to a 3rd party (including relatives).

2.2.8 If you have placed an order for and are a legal guardian of a UK resident under the age of 18yrs who seeks a Covid PCR Fit to Travel Certificate, you are required to be present during the online consultation, otherwise the Healthcare Professional cannot proceed and will reject the certificate.

2.2.9 You are aware that children under 18 years can only attend the online video appointment with an adult (18+) present from the same Appointment Booking.

2.2.10 If done correctly the test sampling is harmless, however unpleasant body reactions can occur. These can vary depending upon the individual and the sampling method used. Possible reactions are gagging, coughing, sneezing, watery eyes, slight bleeding from the mucous membranes and dizziness. We recommend informing an adult who is nearby about the upcoming test, so that they can provide help if necessary. Your address will be requested for your online guidance, so that our team can organise help if necessary. If you feel any discomfort during the online consultation, please inform your healthcare professional immediately.

2.2.11 You or the individual being tested must not drink, eat, use mouthwash, brush teeth, or chew gum 30 minutes prior to online consultation. The quality of the swab sample depends largely on correct sampling. It is therefore important that you follow instructions provided in writing and given during the online consultation.

2.2.12 Please make sure your swab sample is labelled correctly with the name as shown in your passport including all middle names and correct date of birth. Errors that occur during the sampling and shipment processes can lead to delays or make a sample unreadable or invalid.

2.2.13 Any opened test kits prior to the online consultation will be deemed as unusable, and the healthcare professional will be unable to proceed. Certificates will also be marked as rejected for reasons such as, if you fail to join the appointment at the arranged time, you do not give permission for the healthcare professional to share your medical information, the test kit is contaminated, the test is not taken as per the healthcare professional's instruction or abusive or inappropriate behaviour/language is directed at the healthcare professional. On these such occasions you would need to reorder and retake your test at your own expense.

2.2.14 In case of a positive test result (detected) you must consider yourself infectious and follow the current local rules regarding self-isolation and diagnostic confirmation. We will inform you of the test result but will be unable to supply you with a Negative (not detected) Covid PCR Certificate.

2.2.15 False negative and false positive test results are possible. This means despite a negative test result, you can be infected with SARS-CoV-2, and conversely, a positive test result does not mean that you actually have an acute infection with SARS-CoV-2. Please contact your family doctor, a public health service test centre or another medical facility and get advice and testing. Until you receive the result of this confirmatory test, you must consider yourself infectious and follow the local regulations on self-isolation.

2.2.16 As with any other tests, a small percentage of samples can be inconclusive or invalid for reasons including insufficient DNA match, not following instructions strictly, contamination of the sample or insufficient material. In the unlikely event that this happens, you understand and agree that you will need to re-take the test and the same charges will apply. We will inform you of the test result but will be unable to supply you with a negative (not detected) Covid PCR Certificate.

2.2.17 The online guided Covid-19 self-test is a screening method, not a diagnostic service. It does not replace a consultation with a medical doctor.

2.2.18 By purchasing this test, you acknowledge and agree to the terms above and that DocHQ cannot be held liable for any damage to health, losses or delays due to the many factors involved which are outside our control. Your purchase constitutes formal consent for DocHQ to share your details with the Laboratory assigned to your test and relevant third-party suppliers and releases the involved doctors and medical staff from their confidentiality agreement. The necessary involved partners are Park and St Francis Surgery, Ciconia Recovery, UK Public Health England and any relevant regulatory authorities.

2.2.19 When purchasing Test to Release, Day 2 and Day 8 Testing - Please enter the Order ref number (5 digits, 7 numbers) into your Passenger Locator Form (PLF).
